FRENCH STRIKE TELLING BLOWS NEAR AMIENS

Ground Gained in Capture of Hill 82 of Great Importance.

Germans Driven Back From Commanding Point Near Railway.

Continuity of French and British Lines Re-established and Strengthened.

Difficulties of Central Powers With Russia Increase.

Dobrudja Coal Miners Strike Beyond Control of Austrians

By Associated Press Dispatch.

While a new German stroke on either the northern or southern battlefield is still delayed the French have taken the initiative in the latter field and delivered a telling blow southeast of Amiens.

The ground gained by the capture of Hill 82 is probably more valuable than any section of equal area which lies along the entire Somme line. At Hill 82 the Germans were within less than three miles of the important Paris-Amiens railway.

Adding this new territory to the other high ground taken further south along the Aire river not long ago, an excellent line of defense appears to have been taken up by the Entente forces in this region.

The position of the French at Hangard and those of the British on the Villers-Bretonneux ridge preserve the continuity of the line on commanding ground at virtually all vital spots north to the Somme.

The German offensive is not yet ended in the view of military authorities, and the enemy is expected to make further attempts to reach the channel.

The supreme interallied war council has completed a two-day session with a meeting at Abbeville, northwest of Amiens. All military questions were discussed and decided on and the results obtained are said to be "most satisfactory."

Germany and Austria-Hungary apparently are meeting with difficulties in oppressing the people of the occupied Russian territory and as result there is grave uneasiness in Germany. Berlin reports the occupation of Sebastopol, the great Russian fortress and naval base in the Crimea, but gives no details.

The strike in the important Dombrova coal mining district of western Russia is reported to have gone beyond control of the Austrians.

In the Ukraine the invaders are being opposed by armed peasants and it is reported the peasants have ruined the crops rather than let the Germans get possession.

Movement Schedued for May 17

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Paris, May 3.—The French made an attack late yesterday on the front between Hailes and Castel, southeast of Amiens and captured Hill 82, and the woods on the Aire river nearby, the war office announces.

French troops have gained ground near Villers-Bretonneux on the Amiens front.

The men represent about 75 occupations. They include chauffeurs, car-

DUTCH IRE IS AROUSED BY INHUMANITY OF GERMANS

(Associated Press Cable)

London, May 3, via Ottawa.—Dutch papers state 107 wounded British have arrived at Rotterdam for reparation were not sent from Germany under proper conditions. No hospital trains were provided and the Dutch medical authorities expressed forcible opinion regarding transport of stretcher cases under such conditions.

The German authorities, it is declared, must either confess inhumanity or admit that no hospital trains were available owing to the German losses on the western front.

SKILLED MEN ARE CALLED BY CROWDER

Final Discussion of War Department Ends Long Controversy.

President's Insistence Brought Change.

By Associated Press Dispatch

Washington, May 3.—Publication of American casualties in France were resumed today in the old form with the names on the list given out by the war department carrying the home addresses of the men.

The decision of the department ends a controversy which has waged between the department and the committee on public information in which President Wilson was called upon to take a hand.

The President decided that any military advantage the enemy might gain from list would not be of sufficient value to justify the anxiety occasioned by the relatives of soldiers by the suppression of this aid to identification.

DISASTROUS FIRE SWEEPS BUSY CITY

Three Rivers, Quebec, in Grip of Angry Flames.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Three Rivers, Quebec, May 3.—Fire which broke out in the business section today quickly destroyed a number of stores and residences and got the better of the local fire fighting force. Help was asked for from Quebec and Montreal.

By eleven o'clock a. m., an hour after the fire started, 40 houses on the main business street had been destroyed. The flames spread to nearby streets and the families were compelled to leave their houses because of the heat.

Three Rivers, an industrial and manufacturing city of 10,000 and a port of entry, is 75 miles southwest of the city of Quebec. It is on the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railroad.

The fire is reported to have started in the Victoria Theater which collapsed. At noon the damage done was estimated at $100,000. There had been no loss of life up to that time.

Only four counties in Ohio have failed to reach their quotas one in the Cincinnati area and three in the Columbus area.

A total of 1524 honor flags have been awarded in the 4th district.

HIGHER WHEAT

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, May 3.—The Senate today again formally recorded itself in favor of increasing the government guaranteed price for wheat from $2 to $2.50 per bushel, despite rejection by the House.

It insisted on the wheat clause in the agricultural appropriations bill referring the measure to conference but it generally was expected the appeal would die there.

MUST SEND FIVE MILLION MEN OVERSEAS

Senator McCumber Outlines Tremendous Duty.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, May 3.—Five million men must be sent to the battle front by the United States within a year. Senator McCumber of North Dakota, declared today in an address to the Senate, which reviewed America's work during the first year of the war.

"The result of America's effort has been almost negligible up to the present," he said. "Six months have been wasted by the shipping board and $640,000,000 for aircraft has been worse than squandered.

"If we fail to put less than five million men in the field before the end of another year we will again have failed to measure up to our moral duty, and charge to our discredit another year of colossal blunders," he said.

250000 MEN IN MAY CALL

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, May 3.—State officials today received calls for men to fill the May Draft quota. Officials here did not make public the number of men to be called but it is estimated about 250,000 will be inducted during the month. The men will start for the camps about May 25.

SOFT PEDAL ON "KAISER'S BATTLE" TALK FOR YPRES

By Associated Press Dispatch.

London, via Ottawa, May 3.—It is noteworthy that with the lull in the fighting since the German defeat at Ypres all German talk of the "Kaiser's Battle" has vanished.

The German experts and newspapers have now been instructed that no new Sedan is possible and that Ypres is very strong. That the British have fought most stubbornly and after all Ypres is not of importance for the Germans.

They declare the German command may not decide to take Ypres.

The Times refers to a dispatch from Washington stating that diplomats anticipate a peace movement but that no offer of mediation even from the Pope will be considered. Any proposal of peace must come from Germany and the allies will meet any such move with the same unbroken front they met the late German offensive.

RYAN NOMINATED

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, May 3.—John E. Ryan, of Montana, who was recently selected to take charge of aircraft production was formally nominated today by President Wilson to be chairman of the Aircraft Board.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

The civilized world rejoices that the British conquest in the far East is bringing hope for the end of the sufferings of the Armenians and people of the Holy Land.

The American Red Cross has made comprehensive plans for the relief of the people of the Holy Land who, for centuries have suffered under Turkish rule and who were recently rescued from the Moslem yoke through the British conquest of Jerusalem.

A Red Cross commission is on its way to Palestine. The head of this commission will be Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education for the State of New York and President of the University of the State of New York. He will join the body of the commission in Palestine in the near future. Aside from Dr. Finley, the members of the commission number fifty-six.

For some time the American Red Cross has had under consideration the best way to relieve conditions in Palestine. All reports indicate that these conditions were peculiarly deplorable. Famine and disease have exacted heavy toll. Typhus and cholera were and are epidemic. In no part of the world into which the war has been carried is the condition of the civilian population worse than in the land of the Bible.

The initial work of the Red Cross Commission will be to establish in Palestine four medical units to combat typhus, cholera and other diseases.

A fully equipped hospital will be established at a point to be selected. Dispensaries and village work will be established in the less populated districts. The lay assistants attached to the medical units will devote their time to general civilian relief, such as the distribution of clothing and food and the rehabilitation and reconstruction of devastated areas.

A large complement of equipment was taken by the commission, the chief item in the matter of money value being the stores of medical and surgical supplies. Automobiles for transportation and trucks for hauling supplies were in the cargo.

The foodstuffs taken by the commission were intended largely for hospital use, as it is believed that the food for the civilian population can be obtained from stores in Egypt controlled by the British government.

In the sending of this commission by the Red Cross no consideration was given any element except that of relieving the physical distress of the civilian population. The appropriations so far made by the Red Cross are intended to cover a period of six months.

out to the enlisted men in the Navy who sell garments or comfort kits presented to them by American Red Cross. When reports from various sources stated that the sailors were disposing of Red Cross articles in this way, Admiral L. C. Palmer, head of the Bureau of Navigation at Washington, issued an order, part of which reads as follows:

"Every endeavor must be made to see that these articles are only given to men who will appreciate them; and all cases of their use for personal financial gain, or misuse which would reflect discreditably upon the Navy, must be stopped. Commanding officers will take the necessary disciplinary action to make all offenders realize the seriousness of such acts."

The War Department has also made it impossible for soldiers to sell garments given them by the Red Cross.

New Unit Formed.

The Glendon-Jasper neighborhood formed a Red Cross Unit as the aftermath to an interesting meeting of the Mt. Carmel Missionary society, hospitably entertained by Mrs. Albert Nisley, Wednesday afternoon.

The Unit was organized by the election of Mrs. Oscar Wikle, chairman; vice chairman, Mrs. John Perrill; secretary, Mrs. Chas. W. Mark; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Mark; inspector Mrs. Charles W. Bush.

The first meeting of the new Unit will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles W. Bush next Thursday afternoon.

35,000 BUSHELS OF WHEAT MARKETED IN FAYETTE IN APRIL

Conservative estimates place the amount of wheat marketed in Fayette county last month at fully 35,000 bushels, virtually all farmers responding to the call of the government for the marketing of the wheat they were holding, so that the grain is now doing its part toward helping win the war by furnishing food for the fighting men.

From some districts come reports that a few farmers are still holding certain amounts of wheat, and it is understood the names of these farmers have been or will be placed in the hands of federal agents who will make a personal visit and if necessary, confiscate the wheat and market it. It is gratifying, however, to know that there are comparatively few farmers who have disobeyed the request of the government.

A few men who have wheat and have not marketed it, announce that they will do so without further delay, giving as an excuse that they have been so busy heretofore that they did not have the time.

Mrs. Hess and son will stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Allen and Mrs. James Allen.

Are You Willing To Accept An Inferior Quality because "the price is the same?"

Don't be tricked into buying something you may wish you didn't own. Keep an ever watchful eye on the quality of the Clothes you buy this spring and see to it that you get quality—not promises. The same price will have no appeal for you when you cannot get the same quality. Real wool and trimmings cost more than double now. So you can understand why all Clothing dealers who have maintained their quality have raised their prices.

A Death is Noted

In the turmoil and confusion of the world war which has excluded almost every other consideration save of things directly connected with the tremendous tasks of the time, in the multitude of momentous happenings since July, 1914, the world has forgotten many individuals who were, formerly, prominent—famous or infamous.

Among the individuals whom the world has forgotten was Gavrilo Prinzip, the man who slew the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his morganatic wife at Sarajevo. He died of consumption in a castle near Prague where he was confined as punishment for the crime he committed.

But for his death the world never would have thought of the miserable individual again. By a few unthinking persons he is given credit for having, by his crime, plunged the world into war—a few see in the murder of the Archduke the reason for war.

Developments and disclosures have conclusively established that the murder of the Archduke Ferdinand was simply the pretext for beginning a war the cause for which had existed for a long time in the unholy, ambitions, selfishness and savagery of the German military power which had remained crouched to spring upon an unsuspecting world for years. The crime of the miserable Gavrilo Prinzip was only the excuse to make the leap at the throat of the world. His crime paled into insignificance and is forgotten in those committed by the war lords. He murdered two human beings—they murder millions.

America's Splendid Work

It is the purpose of the War Department now to have in France by the early fall an army, ready for active service on European battle fields, totalling three million or more men.

According to plans already working to conclusion, and on schedule too, according to promise, the American army of nearly two million—one million eight hundred thousand to be exact—is almost certain to be in France within the next few months.

That's a tremendous army, an army the like of which was never sent to war by a single nation before the present conflict. To place that grand army in the field drilled, seasoned and equipped in but little more than a year's time is a marvelous accomplishment.

When we remember too, that that army had to be transported several thousand miles across the Atlantic ocean and was, and is, compelled to carry its own provisions, the magnitude of the accomplishment becomes almost unbelievable.

Now, that tremendous program having been accomplished in major part and the remainder assured, it is proposed now to double the original proposal which at the time seemed impossible, and would have been too, with almost any people save the Americans.

Army experts say so splendidly have the American people responded to the call, that the proposal to double the original program should be undertaken and that there is no doubt that Americans will meet gloriously the increased task.

Ypres of Sacred Memory

Perhaps the Ypres salient, as the army correspondents call that basin and the rim of hills surrounding it on the west, where such sanguinary battling has occurred in northern France, has no great military value, perhaps the British forces would be just as advantageously located farther back, perhaps it would be better strategy if it was not defended at too great a cost in men, but there are memories sacred to the British and French, people and soldiers, that will ever be associated with Ypres.

It was in the basin portion of that sector that the British "contemptibles" and the French and Belgians in the early days of the war held up the advancing hordes of Germans.

It was at Ypres later that the British army, grown stronger since the early days of the war, later stopped the slaughter by German artillery by sweeping forward victoriously and capturing the ridges and hills and holding them until this day with the exception of Messines Ridge and Kemmel Hill.

There is no doubt that strong defenses have been constructed back of Ypres, behind which the allied armies could fight in protection of the channel ports, but the soldiers want to hold Ypres. Precious blood was spilled to capture it and to defend it—Ypres is a cherished sentiment with the British and French soldiers—they'll fight heroically to save it. To surrender it would weaken the morale.

Poetry For Today

LIBERTY'S BONDS
Just a shelter poor 'gainst a stormy sky—
A roof 'twixt dark an' dawn,
And bread so dear, and the Bond to buy
For to help the fightin' on;
And I say—I say, in the "provident" way,
There's a wolf been howlin' where we stay;
I've heard him there, in the deep black Night
Whilst the world went shiverin' to the Light!
It's the wolf that howls in the hungry way—
"Bread, or Bond today?"

The blue Sky shines through my humble door—
This word from that Sky seems drawn;
"O there'll be no blue Sky any more
If you don't help the fightin' on!"
And what is the sacrifice of a day
To a world of days where the war-starved stay?
For a world to be free as God meant it to be—
A world that the sad Stars won't shudder to see?
That for the answer! Hear Liberty say;
"There's Bread in the Bond today!" and the home-word follows fast and free;
"Self trampled, and dead, and gone,
Please God, it's Liberty Day for me
For to help the fightin' on!
And the bread I give for Liberty
Comes back a thousand fold to me!
In the blessing of souls that sigh for her;
In the hearts that live or die for her!
To strike down hands that are raised to stay,
I give her all today!"

IRREGULARITIES ARE CHARGED

BY American Press

Washington, May 3.—With demands for a new investigation with a view of criminal prosecution, charges and intimations of irregularities in connection with the aircraft program were brought to the floor of the senate.

During the debate several members of the military committee declared in favor of reopening the inquiry recently concluded by the committee, but Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, acting chairman, said the committee was without power to deal with criminal prosecutions and that the department of justice should handle that phase of the matter.

Later committeemen conferred with Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, who made a report to the president of the aircraft program, and it was said that whether the committee would act depended upon information to be submitted by Mr. Borglum within the next few days.

Senator Hitchcock, dwelling upon alleged misleading of the public regarding aircraft production, told the senate that the aircraft board has been "playing a gigantic confidence game on the whole country." He declared the Liberty motor in fact is nothing but the Packard motor improved, and that the government is contemplating paying the Packard company between $500,000 and $1,000,000 for its interests.

Senator King of Utah said he would introduce a resolution for an investigation if the military committee did not act, declaring personal responsibility for the "failure" of aircraft production should be fixed.

BIG FLEET HOPES MUST BE GIVEN UP

Washington, May 3.—A report on the aircraft situation, compiled by the investigating committee of the Aeronautical Society of America, was filed in the senate by Senator Wadsworth of New York. It reviews at length optimistic statements on the progress of the building program attributed to Secretary Baker and brands them as false and misleading.

The report does not attempt to fix responsibility for delays and failures of the aircraft program, but in a general way supports the published charges made by Gutzon Borglum, the sculptor, who under authority of President Wilson, made a confidential investigation and report on the aircraft situation.

Some portions of the report are startling in their flat charges of inefficiency. It charges that not more than five per cent of the facilities for building aircraft have been utilized by the aircraft production board and that recruiting and training of men for flyers have now slowed down because those in charge of the program have given up hopes of a great fleet of airplanes in 1919.

GRADE CROSSING TRAGEDY CLAIMS MISS JULIA HYER

Widely Known Resident of Johnson's Crossing is Fatally Injured When Auto is Struck by Pennsylvania Passenger Train.

Accident Occurs Within 100 Yards of Her Home Thursday Afternoon and Death Follows Last Night.

Funeral Services Monday Afternoon and Interment in Frankfort Cemetery.

Another shocking grade crossing tragedy was added to the long list of similar tragedies in Fayette county, Thursday evening shortly before four o'clock, when west bound Pennsylvania train No. 519, due in this city at 3:55 o'clock, struck Miss Julia Hyer, wealthy and widely known resident of Johnson's Crossing, as she was in the act of driving her machine across the track in front of her home, tearing her machine to pieces and inflicting injuries which resulted in her death at 10:30 Thursday night.

The terrible accident occurred while Miss Hyer was on her way home from this city, the train striking the closed Buick fairly and reducing it to a mass of twisted steel and scraps in a twinkling, leaving the shattered machine piled up against a telephone pole some 15 feet from the point where it was struck, with Miss Hyer, her back crushed to a pulp, hip and leg broken and in a dying condition still at the steering wheel.

As speedily as possible the train, which was running nearly 40 miles per hour, was brought to a stop about 200 yards up the track, and then backed to the scene of the tragedy.

By this time Joe Dick and others, who chanced to be near the spot at the time, were removing the injured woman from the shattered machine. She was still conscious but it was some time before she realized what had happened.

After removing her from the wrecked automobile, Mr. Dick and part of the train crew, and Mr. Joe Bailey, of this city, who was a passenger on the train, placed Miss Hyer on a robe and carried her to her home less than 100 yards distant, where a physician was summoned and made a record breaking trip to the injured woman's bedside.

Miss Hyer was conscious much of the time after the accident, but after an hour had elapsed, she ceased to speak, and her condition gradually became weaker until the end six and one-half hours after the accident. Powerful stimulants were administered in the hope of prolonging her life, but these were of no avail. Her suffering was intense during the hours she hovered between life and death.

Discussing the accident while still able to talk, Miss Hyer stated frankly that she had not looked for the train when approaching the crossing, believing that it had gone, and that she did not see it at all, although driving down upon the track she was facing the train just before making a sharp turn to cross the track.

Mr. Joe Dick, who was in an automobile on the opposite side of the track, waiting for the train to pass, saw the tragedy at a short distance, and stated that Miss Hyer drove her car without increasing or decreasing its speed and was fairly upon the track when the pilot of the engine struck it just back of the middle, whirling it entirely about and dashing it against the warning post, breaking the post and leaving the body of the machine facing westward. Only one wheel of the machine was left intact, the others being thrown in all directions.

Remnants of the auto were carried up the track for a distance of fully 100 yards. The pilot of the locomotive was badly damaged and a step torn from the tender. Passengers aboard the train were not even shaken by the impact, and were not aware of the accident until the train was beginning to slow down.

The crossing where the tragedy occurred is a dangerous one, and is within 50 yards of a private crossing leading back to the Hyer home, formerly the Armilda Johnson home, and for 40 years Miss Hyer had crossed the track nearly every day, and sometimes several times each day.

Large numbers of persons visited the scene of the accident during the evening, news of the tragedy having spread rapidly.

Miss Hyer has lived at Johnson's Crossing for a great many years, and has a wide circle of friends in this city and county, and Ross county. Until the death of Mrs. Armilda Johnson, last December, she made her home with Mrs. Johnson, who, at her death, left Miss Hyer the home farm. She was 66 years of age April 11th.

The deceased leaves three brothers: Messrs. George Hyer, of New Holland, and Fred Hyer of Pittsburg, Indiana; and Newton Hyer, Dewey, Oklahoma; also three sisters Mrs. Albert Leffingwell, who made her home with Miss Hyer; Mrs. Lizzie Stuckey, Frankfort, Ohio; Mrs. Mary McAdams, Pone-to, Indiana.

The funeral services will be held at the residence, Monday afternoon at two o'clock, with burial in the Frankfort cemetery. Rev. Stone, of the Austin M. E. church, of which church Miss Hyer was a member, will officiate.

FARM NOTES

Course in Swine Farming.

To give aid to the increased pork production campaign the Agricultural College Extension Service of the Ohio State University has issued a series of five lessons on swine farming which anyone in the state may take without cost. This is the latest of the twenty-five correspondence courses conducted by that institution.

The author of the course is Professor J. S. Coffey of the Department of Animal Husbandry. He has treated in order, the present importance of the hog industry, the equipment of the herd, management of swine during the fall and winter, spring and summer, care and management of the herd, feeding and fattening the hogs, and a description of the principal breeds. Special attention will be given to questions asked by students.

Seed Potatoes

On many farms the housewives select the seed potatoes. That is, during the winter they pick from the bin the larger, smoother potatoes for cooking. In the spring the farmer plants the remaining, small, and ill-shaped potatoes or decides to "change seed," as his potatoes are "running out."

The selection of the smaller potatoes for seed, results in propagating strains of the low-yielding hills and eliminating the high-yielding plants. Careful selection of medium-sized, well-formed potatoes from the bin in the fall with suitable storage conditions will preserve the type and yield of potatoes so that "changing seed" will be unnecessary. Hill selection, that is, selecting seed from the higher yielding hills at digging time will increase the yield.

RECLAMATION WORK PAYS BIG REWARD

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington May 3.—The part the Reclamation Service is taking in the general campaign to stimulate war production in agriculture was revealed in a report made public by Director Arthur P. Davis showing that crops valued at $50,000,000 were raised in 1917 by 29,000 farmers on 1,000,000 acres of reclaimed land. The gross average of $50 an acre for crops grown on irrigated farms is considered remarkable by government officials, in view of the fact that in 1909 the average yield for farms in the entire United States was only $16.30 per acre.

The production capacity of the American desert after irrigation is emphasized when the results of the farmers are compared with those of the humid states," say the report. "The 1917 crop from reclaimed lands exceeds in total value by $11,000,000 all the crops of Maine as shown by the census reports of 1909. It is greater by $7,000,000 than the combined crops of New Hampshire and Vermont and only $4,436,000 less than the total crop values of Massachusetts and Connecticut."

The vast extent of the Reclamation service's activities also is revealed by the report. Under its direction, work is now under way on thirty projects in fifteen western states embracing 312,655 acres divided into 60,331 farms. So far, water is available for 1,750,000 acres or approximately about one-half of the area affected by the various projects but limited funds at the disposal of the reclamation service is hindering the work of reclaiming the balance of the land. Despite this handicap, however, this work is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

MORE SMALL POX THAN FOR DECADE

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Columbus, O., April 23.—Records of the state health department show there was more smallpox in Ohio during the winter just closed than in a decade before. There were 2300 cases in January, 1600 in February and 1500 in March. The situation shows slight improvement, however. The disease has spread to practically every section and officials still are fighting to exterminate it.

One unusual phase is that the danger lies in its mildness. Those afflicted are touched so lightly that they continue working, not knowing sometimes what is the matter thus exposing others.

Health authorities believe the disease was brought to the state by wandering labor, attracted largely from the South and East by the war-time industrial rush.

It has been difficult to fight for there has been a large number of scattered cases, and in no community, scarcely, has it been prevalent enough to be called an epidemic.

"Get vaccinated and stay away from anyone 'broken out,'" is the advice of Dr. A. W. Freeman, head of the health department.

NO FOOD WASTAGE AT CAMP SHERMAN

If food wastage ever existed in army cantinments, it does not now exist at Camp Sherman, according to State Food Commissioner Croxton.

Prompted by numerous stories alleging waste, Croxton recently ordered a thorough investigation under direction of Miss Edna N. White, home economics representative on the food administration staff.

After an inspection of every one of 701 kitchens at the camp and the garbage cans belonging to each, Miss

White declares that food conservation is being practiced there to a greater extent than in many homes of the state.

She found that cooks and bakers at the camp are given two months' intensive training by experts before they are placed in charge of work. Every garbage can is inspected before it is turned over to collectors.

If an inspector finds as much as half a loaf of bread in one of the cans Miss White says, the mess sergeant has an explanation to make to his commanding officer.

Menus for the soldiers' mess, examined by Miss White, show that soldiers have two wheatless meals a day.

Officers take pride in what they are doing in the way of food conservation, as well as in the response soldiers have made to every call of the government for the purchase of liberty bonds and thrift stamps.

The man who has the contract for collecting the garbage at the camp complained to investigators of the poor quality of garbage, which he uses to feed hogs. He said it does not have enough food material to pay him for hauling it away.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITION SUMMARY

Washington, D. C., May 1.—The weather continued favorable to winter wheat in all principal areas and the crop is making excellent growth; there is ample moisture nearly everywhere, except that rain is needed in the north Pacific States; plants are heading in the southern states and in California; harvesting has begun in southern California. Insufficient moisture in the north Pacific states and subnormal temperatures in north-central sections have retarded germination of spring wheat but where the plants are up they are promising and stooling well.

Cold, wet weather has delayed corn planting in the lower Missouri and central Mississippi valleys and it has continued too cold in other portions of the belt.

Weather was generally beneficial to pastures and meadows in central and eastern districts but in the southwestern the range is badly in need of rain. Fruit in most places continues promising.
